Federally Licensed Brokers purchase puppies from puppy mills and transport them in vans, trucks, and planes across the country to be sold in pet shops.

At pet shops, puppies are put on display, where they are often forced to sleep on wire grates in small, poorly ventilated and dirty cages.

Puppy Mills are commercial breeding facilities that mass-produce puppies for resale. They are generally filthy, overcrowded, and the dogs living in them don’t receive proper veterinary care.

The breeding dogs in puppy mills spend their entire lives in wretched confinement, exposed to the elements. At the end of their reproductive years, they are usually killed, often by cruel means.

Half a million puppies are born in puppy mills every year.

Unsuspecting customers will purchase puppies at pet shops, only to discover that the dogs have illnesses or behavioral problems stemming from their time in the puppy mill/pet shop supply chain. Staggering vet bills and aggressive behavior can force many customers to abandon their animals at shelters.

Three Million Dogs and Cats Died in Animal Shelters Last Year

Five out of ten dogs and seven out of ten cats are destroyed at animal shelters every year, simply because there is no one to adopt them. You can save them and help stop the puppy mill life cycle. Adopt, don’t shop.
